Windows 7 support has now ended

Microsoft will withdraw its support for Windows 7 today. It is time to say goodbye to Windows 7.

With effect from today, Microsoft will no longer make available updates, solutions to problems or technical assistance online. Windows 7 users will no longer be receiving any security updates, which would protect them against viruses, worms, spyware and other malware.

If you are still using Windows 7, you should update your current computer or buy a new one as soon as possible. Otherwise, you will be exposed to considerable security risks!
