

20.05.2020

Stories from everyday digital life

The fictitious Webster family and their adventures will sensitise you to handling information and communication technologies securely and soundly.

A national prevention campaign targeting the risks of everyday digital life: The adventures of an ordinary family blundering into quite a few traps will call to your attention the challenges of everyday digital life and the way information and communication technologies are handled. In the process, these comic strips deal with such topics as fake news, sexting, bullying, image rights, the influence of social media, data protection or the dependency on smartphones.

You can find the Webster family website here \(https://www.websters.swiss/en/\).

Here \(https://www.websters.swiss/en/assets/data/pdf/s2/DISPLAY-WEBSTERS-EN.pdf\) is a direct link to these comic strips (PDF brochure).