

Entry Rules

Eligible for participation are natural persons who are resident in Switzerland. Excluded from participation are employees of the “eBanking - but secure!” service and their family members.

Registration and personal details

You will have to provide the following personal details to participate in this competition: Salutation, first name, surname, address and e-mail address.

The University of Applied Sciences, Lucerne complies with the conditions of Swiss and cantonal data protection legislation. By submitting the form, you agree that “eBanking – but secure!” can use the data transferred to process the competition and to bring new offers to your attention in the same context.

“eBanking - but secure!” reserves the right to publish the winners’ names. These data will not be passed on to third parties.

Competition period and draw process

This competition will run from 19th November 2019 until 19th December 2019. “eBanking - but secure!” reserves the right to change or shorten this competition period.

Incorrect details, manipulation

“eBanking - but secure!” does not accept any liability for incorrect details, loss of data (in particular during the course of data transfer) and other technical defects. “eBanking - but secure!” reserves the right to withhold and reclaim prizes, to decide on replacement prizes and to exclude winners from this competition should we establish that fraudulent data were used or the draw process was influenced in any way (e.g. by technical manipulation of any kind).

Main prize, insurance, risk

First prize of this competition is one night’s stay for two people with evening meal and breakfast at the Pilatus, incl. first-class return travel from the winner’s residential address.

No cash payout

There is no option to take a cash payout instead of any of the prizes.

Recourse to the courts

There is no recourse to the courts. We will not enter into any correspondence about this competition. The place of jurisdiction is Lucerne. Swiss law applies.

Changes to these entry rules

“eBanking - but secure!” reserves the right to change these entry rules at any time.

