

Deep Web

The Deep Web denotes that part of the Internet which is not indexed (found) by common search engines like Google. It cannot therefore be found directly, as it is located behind passwords, paywalls or special log-in pages. It makes up the largest part of the Internet as a whole and is generally legal and harmless, in contrast to the Darknet in particular, which is sometimes anonymised and used for illegal purposes.

See also: Darknet \(https://www.ebas.ch/en/glossary/darknet/\)