

Investment fraud

Investment fraud refers to a type of fraud where investors are persuaded to invest in projects or products with the help of fake or misleading information. Such investment opportunities are often fictitious, severely over-valued or have their risks deliberately concealed. Such scams aim to obtain money from investors by promising unrealistically high yields or benefits.