Media Access Control Address

This is the individual identification number of a network device (e. g. WLAN connection). This ID is usually set at the factory. It could be compared to a car's chassis number.

Copyright – All rights reserved. Lucerne School of Information Technologies